Previously Intact's VP of service operations, Pett will drive the development of Intact in the UK as well as the company's specialist PCI COMMS infrastructure services and cabling business.

"Alan's appointment as UK managing director is an important one for Intact as our UK operation acts as the central hub for our global services network, our advanced technology capability, as well as the company's international project management capabilities," comments Bob Dalton, Intact Integrated Services Group's CEO.

"In developing our business internationally across the EMEA, Asia Pacific and Americas regions, it's important that we retain a clear focus on our home market, and Alan's proven management capabilities and in-depth experience of the UK market will ensure that Intact Integrated Services retains its position as one of the industry's strongest Cisco-focused engineering teams."

"Intact's global growth relies on a best practice infrastructure and close relationships with our key systems integrator and outsourcing customers, many of whose operations are run out of the UK or EMEA," adds Pett.

"In this new role I'll be focused on delivering that strong foundation for our global growth, as well as developing our Intact and PCI COMMS businesses locally, and directly addressing the growing requirement among major systems integrators and service providers for a best-of-breed services ecosystem that offers a true global delivery capability, helps them control costs, and also supports them in delivering against their critical project SLAs."
